HOSPITAL FUND WORKER PAYS $200 FOR A ROSE

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

$90,477 Is Total at Wednesday Luncheon and Hope Is to Make it $100,000.

A green rose, auctioned St. Patrick's day, at a luncheon in the Planters Hotel, attended by 475 men and womer workers in the Mount St. Rose Hospita money-raising campaign, which ends Wednesday, brought $200, the purchases being Alonzo C. Church, a member of the Executive Committee, who immedi-ately presented it to Mrs. J. L. D. Morson, chairman of the Women's Execu

The workers originally planned to raise $150,000, but later voted to make it $300,-000. Several days ago it became evid m that, partly because of the demands upon the public by other civic and charitable enterprises, the workers would be fortunate to raise $100,000.

It is now known that Mane. Caillaux went home after buying the revolver with which she killed Calmette and wrote a letter which she left for her him when he came home to dress for the embassy dinner. Hiss said that the A. T. & T. Co. furnished for the 41/2 per cent all telephone instruments used by the company and maintains them. In addition, the A. T. & T. furnishes 3 per cent of the number in use as a stock to be used as needed Another service performed, he said, was that the A. Hiss said that the telephone companies not owned or controlled by the A. and T., voluntarily paid it 41/2 per cen of their gross revenue for the same services received by the local company Chairman Atkinson of the commission asked: "Is their stock owned or con trolled by the Western Electric Co.?" Hiss replied that it was not. General Manager Testifies.

William J. Hiss, general manager of the Southwestern Telegraph and Tele-phone Co., was the first witness of the

Hiss gave a history of the invention of the telephone and of the growth of the telephone industry, showing that from the beginning the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., which now controls all of the Bell lines of the country, developed and acquired the patents from time to time.

Hiss said the first telephone exchange in St. Louis was opened in 1878, with 40 subscribers. The rate was $50 a year. In 1880 the rate was increased to $100 In 1884 the East St. Louis exchange was opened with 23 subscribers.

Up to that time the telephone operator had not received the call directly from the subscriber. The switchboard consist. ed of a board with holes in it. It had something of the appearance of the board now in use. When a call was re-eived it came to a wall telephone, where t was taken by a boy. R. F. D. No. 5, Sturgis, Mich.—"Last summer I picked cucumbers about a week before I noticed I was being poisoned. All at once I broke out with a terrible rash all over my entire body. It looked like pimples only was very much smaller. On my arms it seemed to be worse than any place else, It would itch and burn so I would scratch and make small sores that would fester. I suffered day and night for about two weeks but could find no relief.

Tells How Ugly, Deformed Women Become Superb of Figure.

The treatment consists of applying a powerful, harmless, nourishing stimulant direct to the cells of the skin, to be absorbed and utilized to create nourishment of flesh and tissue growth. The most beautiful changes are wrought; ugly, deformed women with scrawny neck, arms and limbs, with no bust development at all visible, are quickly trans-formed into charming personages with well-rounded arms and neck, full, normal bust of exquisite curve and proportion, and shapely figure so much admired in our great ac-tresses and society leaders, and so tresses and society leaders, and so attractive to the other sex always.

The treatment is a rare compound of oils which are greedily absorbed by the skin, thus affording nourishment to the parts, by the increased circulation consequent upon daily

Every Youngster Can Have Fine Digestion if Given a Good Baby Laxative.

In spite of the greatest personal care and the most intelligent attention to diet, babies and children will become constipated, and it is a fact that constipation and indigestion have wrecked many a young life. To start with a good digestive apparatus is to start life without handicap.

But, as we cannot all have perfect working bowels, we must do the next best thing and acquire them, or train them to become healthy. This can be done by the use of a laxative-tonic very highly recommended by a great many mothers. The remedy is called Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and has been on the market for two generations. It can be bought conveniently at any drug store, for fifty cents or one dollar a bottle, and those who are already convinced of its merits buy the dollar size.

Its mildness makes it the ideal medicine for children, and it is also very pleasant to the taste. It is sure in its effect, and genuinely harmless.

Lack of Physical Likeness Somewhat Condoned by Illuminative Reading of Lines.

By RIPLEY D. SAUNDERS. M IDWAY between the raven-locked Hamlet of Edwin Booth's playing and the yellow-locked Dane played by Charles Fechter stands that of Robert Mantell, as seen at the Shubert Theater on Tuesday evening, his nelancholy brow crowned with a thatch ruddy auburn, more commonly the session of men whose thought is opimistic and whose action is direct, agressive and energetic Mantell is, indeed, a Hamlet who re uses to look the part unless, strange ly, one believes that it was a very stal wart and upstanding Prince of Denmark who was so suddenly smitten with the paralysis of irresolution by the benumbing shock of his royal father's untimely death. Such a belief is difficult

To this extent, therefore, the deepvoiced and big-framed Hamlet of Man-tell's picturing, older by many, many years than the introspective youth of hakspeare's conception, places a heavy strain upon one's credence, no matter now willing the imagination may be to discern Hamlet where Hamlet is not. As a logical result of this physical inlikeness, Mantell is hard pressed at every moment in his necessary effort to transform an entire audience into a composite Polonius, as it were, seeing the thing which his Hamlet demands to whether or not the thing has visible existence.

The truth of the situation is that one must be content with Mantell's masterly reading of Shakspeare's lines in this profoundly psychological tragedy, not asking for a visual embodiment of the character. Nature has forbidden the Hamlet aspect to this player. Not by any trick of stage makeup, it would seem, can her prohibitive injunction be

But it is equally true that Mantell gives an illuminative utterance of all the piteous Hamlet plaint of soul-bewilderment and well-nigh feminine hesitan cy in the confronting of a high duty of bloody vengeance. He strikes the prop er key at every moment of his task's performance. One gets the significance Hamlet through the sense of hearing. This in itself is creditable to Mantell's art, but, inevitably, such a realization is not fully satisfying across the footlights. The company in support of the star proved moderately competent. The Ophelia played by Miss Genevieve Hamper was wistful-sweet, but not distin guished. Fritz Leiber depicted a satisfying Laertes. Guy Lindsley presents a correct and likable Horatio. The Polonius drawn by Frank Peters was prop erly self-complacent, garrulous and oracular. The King and Queen played by John Burke and Miss Genevieve Reynolds were fairly capable. Others n the cast acquitted themselves aceptably in the main.

OPEN LETTERS From COLE-No

This morning I saw a robin. The little rascal cocked his eye up at me, tangoed a few steps down the walk, then flew away with a song in his throat. When I saw him last he was headed toward St. Louis. If you see a robin in the next few days it will probably be this same one. He has a message frem me to you. It is a message of sunshine and out-of-

Confidentially, I arranged with him to put the whole Robin tribe to work for me, and it will only be a little while until every man, woman and child in Missouri knows the message. There is no use trying to spell this message out-Robin is a very difficult language, but when saying: "Get that automobile quick. The country will soon be green.

No Reason Why the Outlaw Organization Should Not Build Up Its Strength From Raw Material, Just as the Big Circuit Clubs Do Annually.

TEAMS IN PENN RELAYS

Beware of Fake-Price Automobiles

The attractive "trading-in" values offered you by some motor car dealers are based on a fake list price.

Some cars that should list-on production cost-at $1200 are priced and advertised at $1800 or $2000. Thus the dealer can apparently allow the buyer from $600 to $800 more for his old car than can a dealer who sells an honestly-priced car.

But the purchaser "holds the bag." Eventually he pays more for the "fake-price" car than he would for one legitimately priced.

Used Cars Have Known Value

There is no mystery about the value of a used car.

Cars of every make, of certain models, have a standard, maximum market value. Poor condition of car reduces this figure. Good condition does not increase it.

Any dealer who offers more than the average known value of a used car usually makes it up in some other way. Either the car he wishes to sell is overpriced; or it is a depreciated model; or he figures on charging the buyer later for attention given the car; or he is making a quick clean-up-possibly going out of business.

Be suspicious of any trade-in offer that is higher than the average offered by reputable and established dealers.

It is a well-known fact that buyers of "cut-price" and "fake-price" cars need look for nothing in the way of service or care from the dealer.

The legitimate dealer's effort is to keep you out of trouble, to have you call frequently that your car may be kept in best possible condition. The other dealer socicomes trouble, for it enables him to charge you for work done on your car. He expects to make his profits out of pay work that should be free work. Unless he sees a repair job he would prefer that you never came near him again.

-and you must take Sanatogen regularly for several weeks

THIS urg tadvice is given by physicians day by day in L every civilized land—wherever sufferers from starved nerves and poor digestion seek relief. There is a reason for this. Physicians know that Sanatogen is a substance capable of supplying the real needs of a starved, over-wrought nervous system—that is a scientific combination of albumen and organic phosphorus—a compound eagerly absorbed by the hungry tissues and possessing unique tonic and reconstructive qualities. They also know from their own observation what Sanatogen has done for others. They have watched its revivifying actions on persons whose nervous strength had been undermined by overwork, worry or disease; they have observed how it has infused renewed energy, life and elasticity into starved nerves; how it has regenerated the appetite, digestion; in short, how wonderfully it has helped to make the human machinery fit to perform its functions in the most perfect manner.

There are on file with the owners of Sanatogen no less than 18,000 letters from practising physicians praising, endorsing Sanatogen. Truly, a magnificent monument to the value of this food-tonic.

But no less impressive is the enthusiastic testimony of patients themselves. Men and women in the forefront of human endeavor, statesmen, prelates, authors, lawyers, have written above their own signatures of the wonderful benefits received from Sanatogen.

FAYETTE, Mo., March 18.-Dallas Shields, a negro barber, who shot John Gaines, a 69-year-old constable, to death here, shortly before 7 o'clock last night, was taken from the Howard County jail a little more than two hours later by a mob and hanged to a tree in the city square. The negro resisted when Gaines tried to take the revolver. It is said that the Consta-ble struck him on the head with the butt of his weapon.

A TRAGIC SECOND CHAPTER. That danger towered over the ruins in that ottering wall was evident to any bystander. It would be an easy matter—as easy as cruel—to

The Fire Chief also and the police might have kept the seed company premises empty while they worked. It is so easy, so cheap, to lay blame on this man or that man-if laying blame is the object.

But let us reflect sympathetically that men are mortal, even as mortals may be heroes-and had that puff of hurricane come from another quarter of the compass it might have buried the search for bodies. NO EXEMPTION IN TREATY. WHY? The interpretation put on constitutions, stat ites and treaties at the time they were being formulated and adopted has always been held to have high authority in construing them later. While the ratification of the Hay-Pauncefoto agreement on the canal was pending in the Sen ate the following amendment was offered and de feated by a vote of 43 to 27: The United States reserves the right in the regulation and management of the canal to discriminate in respect of the charges of traffic in favor of vessels of its own citizens engaged in the coastwise trade.

Later an attempt was made to read into the treaty a reservation for which the Senate, when it had the power, declined by an overwhelming vote to stipulate. Can that be a strained or unwarranted construction which foreign chancellories now base on the Senate's own interpretation more than a decade ago?

What President Wilson insists on is that reservation shall be read out of the treaty which was wrongfully read in and does not belong there.

Montgomery, Ala., had a barge line operating on the Alabama River to Mobile two or three vears ago. Why shippers derived benefit from it for only a short time is explained by the Mobile Register. A PARISIAN DRAMA.

The Caillaux-Calmette tragedy was uniquely Parisian. It was theatrical in the highest degree—a drama in real life with an admirably selected cast and a skillful stage setting. The wife of the Finance Minister of France goes to the office of Figaro and shoots the most distinguished editor of Paris to protect her husband from scandalous newspaper revelations. In the background is the divorced wife of the Finance Minister supplying personal letters of her successful rival and intimate details of Building Commissioner himself, who was risking social scandals to the newspaper editor. And his own life with that of his workers in the Paul Bourget present to write the story of the climax and the leading actress fainting on the stage at the news of the death of her friend.

Here were the two political enemies, the eternal feminine—the second woman and the the analytical novelist. What revels of psychology, sociology, sexology; what dissection of character and motives; what revelations of the social labyrinth of Paris we shall have!

A GOOD CHARTER FINISH.

"I am going to tell the Post-Dispatch to quit writing editorials about the charter or we never will finish it," remarked Freeholder Rowe in a debate over a Post-Dispatch suggestion.

We do not want to delay the work of the Board of Freeholders any longer than is necessary to get a first-class charter. But if delay comes on account of good suggestions from any source we are sure the people will approve it.

FUTURE OF THE EXPRESS COMPANIES.

The amendment to the parcel post rules permitting crates of from 20 to 50 pounds containing butter, eggs, fruits, vegetables, poultry and other articles to be shipped through the postoffice will further handican the express companies. Heretofore, they have had no competi tion in this class of business. And there appears to be more than a possibility that the weight limit by parcel post will be raised to at least 100 pounds.

The future existence of the express companies evidently lies in meeting the Government competition. Can they do so?

Ever since the express companies have existed they have successfully competed with the Gov ernment in the transmission of money and in the issuance of money orders. Between 15,000,000 and 20,000,000 money orders are issued by express companies for their customers per annum on an average. This shows that in this branch of business they have given the public such good service as to command confidence to an extraordinary degree. It should be a pointer on the kind of service that will make for success along other lines. This is a vast and growing country. Its con nerce may be said to have almost infinite possibilities of growth. The express companies have done a business of between $115,000,000 and $120,-600,000 annually. They can doubtless retain a very large part of this business and even make progress by adopting the right methods, meeting the Postal Department on its own ground, through efficiency, promptness, low rates and constant attention to the needs and requirements of the shipping public.

It is supposed in some light-think-ing quarters that to deny an engagement is ungallant upon the part of a gentleman. It isn't anything of the kind. To deny it in the frank and respectful manner of the young man in New York who says he is not engaged to any of the resident's daughters, is the height of gallantry. MISCONSIN POETRY IN LONDON.

A London dispatch by Marconi wireless to the New York Times indicates that the verse of Ella Wheeler Wilcox is appreciated in England and has attracted the attention of royalty. According to this authority, King George and Queen Mary, accompanied by Prince Albert, visited the handsome new building of the Young Men's Christian Association headquarters in Londou, Thursday evening, and almost the first thing to attract the Queen's notice was the following verse, hung in a prominent place in the sécretary's office,

A Fable for Parents

By George Edward Streeter.

HOMAS BOOKMAN, Ph. D., Was one of those exceeding clever men-short and stout, spectacled and bewhiskered—who find it difficult to make both ends meet. As a private tutor he forced the old Greek and Roman down the small throats of the young who were much more eager for dinner than for the classics.

Everything about Mr. Bookman was dingy and melancholy. The world in which he lived was surrounded by creditors, who merely knew him as a debtor itors, who merely knew him as a debtor to be continually carried forward in their books. His children looked upon him as a man of mystery, woefully deficient in small change; while his wife realized that he possessed real ability and no income to speak of.

The only easis in the Sahara of the Bookman family was Lucretta, the eldest of the six daughters. She was an eminently practical girl. One day she said to her father:

"I have long been thinking of our ion, and it seems to me that unless something is done at once we shall starve. There are six of us girls, and offer of marriage from Fred Harris, rrest of Barney Hill in East St. Louis Is Kept Secret for Several Days.

Barney Hill, an alleged gangst t East St. Louis, was arrested by eputy Sheriffs Saturday night, and a being held in East St. Louis in being held in the county jail without bail.

The police declare they have solved the mystery surrounding the killing of Childers, but are keeping the names of the witnesses secret through fear that if their names are made public gangsters will induce them to depart from the city before the trial.

Night After an Election.

Childers was killed in what witnesses described as a free-fer-all fight on the night after the election of Mayor Chamberlin, who had made the race on a reform ticket. The gang, the police say, was in a bad humor, because of the success of Chamberlin. Whether Childers was killed because his assailants thought he was a Chamberlin under the death, has never been determined.

Women of the "Valley" have told detectives that a stranger who witnessed the killing was driven from the district by the gang.

Miss Wilson's engagement ring is in strong contrast to the simpler one of her sister, Jessie, now Mrs. Sayre. Mr. McAdoo's choice for his fiancee is a large diamond set in platinum. The stone weighs about four and one-hair karats and is blue white. It is surrounded by an elaborate and delicate filigree studded with small diamonds on each side of the solitaire.

There was a report today that the wedding would take place on June 13, the Wilson's "lucky day," and under the big elm in the south grounds.

THIRTEEN thousand L listing changes are made in each issue of the Bell Telephone Directory.

By consulting the latest issue, calls for wrong numbers will be reduced to a minimum. To use an out-of-date directory is almost equivalent to "taking a chance" on telephone number.

The Spring edition of the Bell Telephone Directory was delivered to subscribers recently. If you still have an old book please call Olive 100, station 1. We will be glad to replace it with a new one.
